DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5,7-10,13-17 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wales (US 3,48,871)

Wales discloses a fastener as seen in figure 8 with first and second arms connected at an angle (at the sides), including a wave portion, a flange (both at the bottom) with tapered sides and wherein the shape of the fastener is a triangular or heart shape as broadly claimed. The hear shape is a human heart shape. The pair of tapered sides are parallel as claimed and the first and second arms have first and second ends and wherein the first and second arms are connected together at one end to form a plane. In regard to claim 19, Wales discloses the arm configuration as broadly claimed and as best understood wherein the arm is angled and the other is parallel to the plane as seen in figure 8 of Wales. The fastener of Wales when used to attach a shoulder strap to a brassiere would create the biased orientation (due to the angled arms) in relation to the body of the brassiere as claimed. However, the intended use recitations have not been given patentable weight since they do not further distinguish the structure of the inventive fastener over the prior art fastener satisfying the same structural limitations.

Claims 6,11,12,18 and 20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the cited references, alone or in combination disclose the tapered sides or angles as specifically claimed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 1-23-06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In regard to the Wales patent the straps fit through the spaces within the Wales connector. Wales allows the straps to go through the openings. The Wales structure is for use with a strap which would include a bra strap broadly as claimed as intended use. The present inventions back porting is a strap attached to the back panel. The strap is what goes through the connector and not the back panel main part itself. This is seen in figure 5. Nothing precludes the Wales connectors from any use as a bra strap connector as claimed. Applicant has not positively recited the brassiere structure itself other than as an intended use state that has not been given any patentable weight. One of ordinary skill in the art of garment manufacturing would know to substitute a back bra strap fastener with any other known fastener such as that disclosed by Wales. One would also know that an angled strap connector would yield an angled strap connection. Applicant must positively recite the back strap and fastener in combination not just the intended use of the fastener.
